Ossining Builder Buys
15-Acre Rt. 209 Plot

Fifteen acres of the former Wiltwyck Golf Course on Route 209 just outside the City of Kingston have been purchased by an Ossining builder, The Freeman learned today.

No Present Plans

Walter O. Stanley, who operates a construction company in Ossining, told The Freeman this morning that he has purchased the land "as an investment" and that he has no plans for it at the present time.

He said that his firm frequently "builds and develops properties of this kind."

Seller of the property was the Golf Course Properties Corporation of Kingston, represented by Attorney Abraham Streifer.

Golf Course Properties is composed of a number of local businessmen, including Streifer, Michael Starkman of the Valley Advertising Agency, Herman J. Eaton, Samuel and Cople Barnovitz and others.

The amount of the sale was not divulged. Realtors for the transaction was the local firm of O'Connor-Kershaw.

It is a matter of rumor that the site may be used ultimately for construction of a Catholic high school. Stanley has reportedly been engaged in the past on the purchase of property for the Archdiocese of New York.

500-Foot Frontage

The property, which extends from Route 209 opposite the Siller Beef Company, to the Thruway, has a frontage of 500 feet on Route 209.

The total original acreage of the old Wiltwyck Golf Course was 102. Small parcels were sold from time to time, however, reducing it to 80 acres. Sale of 15 acres to Stanley further diminishes the property to 65 acres still unsold.

Several houses have been built on small parcels of the original land.

Representing the purchaser was Attorney Joseph L. Quinn of Poughkeepsie.

Amesse Pleads Innocent,
Girl Missing From Bridge

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP)—Twenty-year-old David Amesse pleaded innocent to a second degree murder charge Friday in the disappearance of a girl friend from the mid-Hudson bridge last December.

Amesse had been held 72 days as a material witness because the body of 18-year-old Rachel Perry has not been found.

A defense attorney protested that Amesse was being kept in custody for an undue length of time for such a purpose. As a result State Police obtained a warrant charging him with second degree murder and arrested him Thursday.

On the night of Dec. 22, Amesse reported to police that Miss Perry had plunged into the river as he strode across the bridge.

After questioning, police quoted him as saying he and the girl entered a suicide pact after discovering she was three months pregnant, but that he lost his nerve after the girl jumped.

However, according to officers, Amesse later recanted this account, asserting there was no suicide pact but that he "pushed her a little" and she fell off the bridge.

When he was arraigned Friday before Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz, Amesse told the judge he had letters in which Miss Perry agreed to a joint suicide. He also asserted he had five witnesses who would say she planned to take her own life.

Amesse claimed any statement purported to have been taken from him was made under duress and that police had threatened to shove him out of a car and shoot him, on the grounds of attempted escape, if he did not confess pushing Miss Perry from the bridge.

Judge Schwartz continued Amesse in $25,000 bond after discovering she was three months pregnant, but that he lost his nerve after the girl jumped.

Favor Purchase
Of Water Lines
For Kerhonkson

Favorable reaction toward the purchase of two private water systems by Kerhonkson Water District for an estimated $50,000 was evident at the Friday night meeting of Wawarsing Town Board and more than 60 residents of the newly formed district.

Town Clerk Edward R. Mance said the majority of those attending seemed satisfied that purchase of the two systems for the water district at a reported $50,000 would be beneficial to all residents of the district.

The next step will be the signing of a contract with Maynard DeWitt of Ellenville, owner of Kerhonkson Water Company Inc., and the Van Kleek Line. The water companies have been operating privately for about 37 years.

The contract for the purchase of the two systems by the water district must be approved by the Public Service Commission.

It was brought out at the informational meeting that some of the two-inch mains would have to be replaced by the district.

Monday's Tour Will Decide
Future of Albany Mansion

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Legislative leaders will tour New York's fire-damaged executive mansion Monday as the first step toward reaching a decision on whether the home of governors should be rebuilt or razed.

The 101-year-old turreted structure burst into flames early Friday. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, his wife and three servants fled to safety by ladders.

Rockefeller put the loss at $500,000, including $350,000 worth of artworks. But a spokesman for the governor said that, because the governor's estimate was made on the "spur of the moment," it could not be considered official.

Cortland V. R. Schuyler, director of the State Office of General Services, said restoration of the brick mansion would depend on how much such a job would cost. Structurally, the mansion appeared sound.

For years, there has been sentiment to build a new mansion in another section of Albany. The present site, on Eagle Street and seven blocks south of the State Capitol, is in a tenement area. It once was a fashionable section of Albany.

Former Gov. Averell Harriman, a Democrat, who preceded Rockefeller in office, liked the mansion.

Rages in Matadi

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Congolese troops battled United Nation' soldier in the vital port town of Matadi today as anti-U.N. violence gathered pace through the Congo.

Rages Two Hours

U.N. sources reported fighting broke out in Matadi streets around midday and raged for two hours with mortar and small arms fire. First reports gave no indication of casualties but said houses and property were damaged in the battle.

Earlier, about 100 miles to the west down the Congo River, Congolese troops came ashore in boats and drove the United Nations garrison of 24 Sudanese soldiers out of the town of Banana. The assault followed a series of gun battles Friday in which one Congolese soldier was killed and one Sudanese wounded.

Restore Order: Dag

U. N. reinforcements of Indonesian troops were rushed out to nearby Kibona this morning after U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold issued form instructions for order to be restored.

The U.N. spokesman said the trouble started when a platoon of Sudanese troops escorting their colonel out to the airport was stopped by Congolese troops. After brief argument the Congolese troops opened fire, the U.N. spokesman said.

Tunisian Seized

A Congolese civilian was shot dead in a hall of submachine-gun fire outside his home Friday night and Leopoldville police seized a U.N. Tunisian soldier they said was the killer.

The shooting began after a row between a Tunisian soldier and Congolese tailor over a pair of pants.

Laotian Crisis May Call
For Stronger JFK Moves

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The tide of civil war in Laos is beginning to run dangerously against American efforts to unify and neutralize that Southeast Asian country.

Worried Kennedy administration officials are now trying to figure out new moves this country or its allies can make to achieve a military stalemate and provide a fresh basis for diplomatic negotiations.

Hope to Avoid Showdown

Officials hope to avoid a military showdown with the Soviet Union in Laos, but increasingly it is being said privately by authorities here that the United States will never allow the Communist conquest of Laos which would endanger all of Southeast Asia.

Unless the situation can be improved from the Western point of view in the next two or three weeks, the United States will have to take a much stronger position than it has so far in trying to bring the civil war under control, responsible authorities say.

One possible action under consideration is to give the Soviet government a new warning of the seriousness of American intentions not to settle for anything less than a neutralized Laos.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, who returned to Moscow from Washington early this week, is expected to explore the Laotian crisis with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as soon as possible.

Red Hand Evident

The worsening of the situation in Laos, as evaluated in official quarters here, is due to a heavy inflow of Soviet weapons and

Mark Revalued by Bonn
To Ease U. S. Pressure

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)

—The West German mark was revalued today in the strongest move yet to ease the pressure on the U.S. dollar.

Effective immediately the dollar will buy only 4 marks instead of 4 marks and 20 pfennigs. All other foreign currencies were adjusted accordingly.

The measure, disclosed by the Deutsche Bank in Frankfurt, was confirmed by the West German economics ministry. Details were expected to be released at a Bonn news conference Sunday.

Comes After Denials

The move was preceded by a flurry of stock exchange speculation and a rapid weakening of the dollar in the German market. It came after repeated denials by both the Bonn government and the Deutsche Bank of any revaluation plans.

Rumors of revaluation of the German mark, long recognized as one of the strongest currencies in Europe, have cropped up periodically over the past few years.

Purchase of the West mark for speculative purposes has been an important contribution to the rise of Germany's foreign currency reserves.

The revaluation was expected to some extent to reduce the speculative attraction of the mark.

Means 5 PC Increase

It will also put a squeeze on Germany's prospering export trade and to this extent curtail the influence of dollars and other foreign currency into Germany.

In effect, it means a 5 per cent increase in the cost of everything West Germany sells abroad and will reduce by this amount West Germany's trade advantage over other countries.

The revaluation was expected to increase the flow of cheaper imports to check runaway price trends domestically.

West German gold and foreign exchange reserves last week were almost 28 billion marks, then $6.68 billion.

Magnet for Speculation

West Germany had faced increasing criticism from abroad for holding to what some considered an undervalued currency.

This situation and a tight-money policy had made West Germany a leading magnet for speculative money.

The revaluation created some confusion in banking circles and

Second Area Boy
Is Pond Victim;
Caution Advised

Another area youngster—the second in as many days—drowned in a pond Friday afternoon.

Don't let this happen to your child, warns the Ulster County Sheriff's Office.

Ponds, lakes, creeks and other bodies of water which have been frozen most of the winter are breaking up and extremely hazardous for a child's play area.

For the second day Sheriff Claude Bell issued a warning to parents and adults to be alert where small children have access to bodies of water near their home or play area.

A Columbia County boy, Mark Feingold, 4, son of Mrs. Mimi Feingold, accidentally drowned in a pond at the White Stallion Ranch Friday afternoon near Hillsdale. The mother is employed at the ranch.

Claverack state police, who recovered the body, said the child had been warned to stay away from the pond. George Robert Near Jr., of Philmont issued a verdict of accidental death.

On Thursday Christopher Bulich, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bulich of Catskill was drowned in a seven-foot deep reservoir near his home.

Paltz School Defeat Seen
Blow to Gaining Industry

The defeat of the $490,000 school bond issue this week was viewed today as dealing a "crushing blow" to the New Paltz Chamber of Commerce endeavor of enticing additional industry into the area.

This was the somber opinion today of John Ashton Jr., president of the New Paltz Board of Education, in summing up the effects of Tuesday's defeat at the polls for a 12-room elementary school building on Route 32.

Ashton reiterated his point made the day after the vote that no new school building in the New Paltz Central School District was contemplated and that immediate plans are necessary for the institution of double sessions next September.

Speaking on the industry angle for New Paltz President Ashton said:

Hopes of Progress

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—India has offered a 3,000-man brigade to help beef up the U.N. Congo command and restore order in the divided African nation.

The offer came as leaders of all the anti-Communist Congo factions were meeting on the island of Madagascar in the Indian Ocean to try to thresh out a peaceful settlement of the confused Congolese problem. Rebel chief Antoine Gizenga ignored an invitation to attend and his absence dimmed hopes of progress.

Total About 4,000

India's promise of troops, transmitted to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold by Indian Ambassador C. S. Jha, came on the heels of similar assurances of reinforcements from Liberia and Tunisia. It brings the total of new forces volunteered to about 4,000.

Hammarskjold had appealed for more troops to buttress the dwindling U.N. force up to 25,000 he said is needed to keep peace in the chaotic new nation. The original Congo force was about 20,000 but protests against Hammarskjold's policies led to some withdrawals. The present strength is 18,500.

Sending combat troops aboard would set a precedent for India. Units have been used in Korea, Indochina, the Gaza strip and even in the Congo but only on medical missions, as guards and other such non-combatant duties.

Wanted Clarification

Nehru had insisted in clarification of Congo policies before agreeing to send troops. He gave approval to passage of a resolution in the Security Council authorizing U.N. forces to head off military clashes and civil war if need be.

Jha said reinforcements for the U.N. were needed to implement this measure. The Indian envoy said it was not easy for India to send a brigade, but "realizing the situation in the Congo and the urgent need for help, the step was decided upon."

He laid down conditions that Indian troops should not be used to suppress popular movements or party factions in the Congo.

Adlai, Zorin Confer

Ambassador Adlai Stevenson discussed the Congo issue with Valerian Zorin at a luncheon he gave Friday for the Soviet deputy foreign minister. A U.S. spokesman said.

Economy Upturn?

Few feel that the magic moment has arrived for the upturn of the nation's economy.

However, the consensus, based on hopes and faint signs, seems to be that this is the situation.

Today's weekly roundup of the business and finance week, found on Page 13, touches on this vital subject.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

"Man is like a rubber ball. The harder down he goes the more bounce . . . due to the Spirit," believes Don Alban.

Don was stricken with a muscle-crippling disease after graduating from high school, which confined him to a wheel chair for the past 25 years. Yet, he became an inspirational columnist for the Columbus Dispatch.

When I visited Don, there was a picture of Christ and a prayer on a wall. I noticed his difficulty in grasping a pencil. It takes him almost two days to write his column longhand. Then, because he is unable to use a finger, he painstakingly types his copy by tapping the keys with a pencil.

"In my early days," he told me, "a picture came to my mind's eye of sitting at a typewriter batting out my column . . . I was ashamed to tell others. They would think I had flipped . . . But in spite of my doubts I held that picture and—with years of hard work—it happened. Faith works like that."

Maj. Raines said there are 142 men's social service centers in the United States, 43 in the eastern territory. Poughkeepsie, one of the smallest in the country, has accommodations for 36 men. It is a rehabilitation center for homeless men, itinerant workers, skilled and unskilled, professional and business men.

Each receives food, clothing, shelter, medical care, personal and group counseling, a work therapy program, recreation and fellowship, plus a small cash gratuity each week.

He said that a wholesome balanced diet costing about $12,000 a year is part of the Poughkeepsie program, with no restrictions placed on the amount, so long as none is wasted.

Each man must have adequate working clothes and change of clothing to wear around the center. In addition, he must have dress shirt, tie, shoes, suit and be freshly shaven as well as clean no later than Saturday noon of the week he arrives.

A bed with adequate clean blankets and linen, towels weekly, a locker assigned to each bed are provided by the center. Radios, television, table games, writing material, books, magazines and a canteen to provide him with tobacco, smokes, toilet articles, sodas, sandwiches, etc., are also part of the program.

An examination by a physician is provided within a day or two of admission. X-rays of all men, blood tests for those handling food or working in the house area, emergency treatment and hospitalization when needed, psychological testing and treatment when advised by the doctor. Formal and informal, private and group counseling, are available, but no funds are available for psychiatric service. Group counseling includes regular Sunday services and week night religious services.

The center operates a kitchen, dining room, housing unit, three stores, seven trucks, a warehouse, repair shops, salvage section, and sorting rooms, hires truck drivers, supervisors, bookkeepers, storekeepers, cook, office secretary and sorters for clothing. A man may be graduated to employment but is never assigned to work therapy.

The trucks service the Kingston area three days a week, he said. The store operated by the center offers many bargains on household furniture and clothing for people in the low income bracket who do not want to accept charity.

Men from the center are also sent for rehabilitation, the social helps in emergencies and disaster services, Maj. Raines said.

Bishops' Needy Overseas Fund To Open Sunday

The 1961 appeal of the Catholic Bishops' Fund for overseas relief will open in the 401 parishes of the New York Archdiocese Sunday with the reading of a pastoral letter from His Eminence Francis Cardinal Spellman and the distribution of envelopes which will be returnable the following Sunday.

Supplementing the church collection will be contributions from Catholic elementary and high school children who have been conducting classroom collections which will continue to the end of the Lenten season. Msgr. Frederick A. Nolan is archdiocesan director of the appeal and is being assisted by 44 regional directors who are supervising the campaign in their respective counties.

The national goal of the Bishops' Fund Appeal, Msgr. Nolan explains, is $5,000,000 and beneficiaries will be refugees and needy poor in Europe, Asia, Africa, the Far East, the Near and Middle East and Central and South America. In addition to supplying millions of the needy in these countries with food, clothing and medicine, Catholic Relief Services, the overseas agency of the Bishops' Fund, also assists in the resettlement of refugees and initiates self-help programs in depressed areas.

In 1960, for the fourth consecutive year, Catholic Relief Services dispatched overseas one billion pounds of relief supplies for distribution to the most needy without regard to race or creed. These shipments, valued in excess of $90,000,000 went to 64 countries.

Contributions to the Bishops' Fund enable Catholic Relief Services to carry on the world's largest voluntary program of overseas aid.

District Luther League Workshop Set at Redeemer

A Luther League leadership workshop will be held Sunday from 2 to 8 p. m. at Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Warts and Rogers Streets. This is one of 10 similar workshops to be held in various parts of the United Lutheran Synod of New York and New England. About 80 lay youth advisors, pastors and Luther League presidents from congregations in seven counties in eastern New York have made reservations to attend the conference.

The program of the workshop has been set up by George J. Manos, secretary for youth work of the synod, who will be assisted by six young people from the metropolitan area and will provide opportunity for leaders to witness and experiment with the actual methods of techniques of long-range planning, program development, worship presentation and recreation.

The young people of the Redeemer Church, headed by Judith D. Blankschan, president, will be served by the mothers of the local group with the assistance of members of the United Lutheran Church Women of Redeemer.

District advisor for the meeting is the Rev. Robert E. Reisch, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Port Jervis.

No Indictments, Jury Report Declined

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — An Erie County grand jury report that contained no indictments has been declined by a State Supreme Court justice, who said he was following a recent decision of the State Court of Appeals.

Justice John F. Dwyer would not accept the report Friday, citing a decision of the state's highest court two weeks ago that a grand jury cannot make a presentment unless it finds cause to indict someone.

Dwyer said it had been his impression that "over the years special reports of grand juries, . . . have been of great value." He said that it was necessary, however, to "take the law as announced by the Court of Appeals."

Q "I don't need the income from $5,100 worth of E bonds which have matured. I also have a savings account and life insurance. I will be pensioned off in ten years. Should I extend my E bonds?"—M.W.

A In your particular position, I would extend only a portion of them. Your entire financial picture represents one or another form of fixed income investment. Government bonds, savings accounts, insurance and future pension payments are all grand things to have and represent the ultimate in security—but they each lack one very important element. They offer no real protection against inflation and the further decline in purchasing power of your dollar which seems to me to be so inevitable. You can, however, get a measure of protection by investing in certain forms or real estate or in growth stocks. For most people the latter course is the more practical.

In your situation, where income is non-essential, I would keep in governments and savings accounts only enough to protect you against all the hazards of daily living: illness, loss of income, or any other emergency. I would put the remainder into the very best growth stocks I could buy. I would do this with the full realization that I was accepting some risk not present in my other investments—but, that ten years hence, in terms of my dollar investment, the risk should more than pay off.

Q "I own 100 shares of Missouri Pacific Railroad 'A' stock. What is its value and present dividend rate? Should I hold?"—P.L.

A MoPac shares sold recently around 40, which means that your block is currently worth about $4,000. On the $2.40 per share annual dividend, which seems safe, you are getting a return of $240 per year and a 6 per cent yield. Under today's market conditions, your stock would be hard to beat for income, if that is your objective. Hold.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 4, 1961

SUPPORT THE RED CROSS

Throughout this month, local residents will be afforded an opportunity to share in the work of the Red Cross. The goal for Ulster County is $34,700 and for the City of Kingston $4,700.

Funds contributed will be used by the Ulster County Chapter for the people of Kingston and Ulster County and for the administration of numerous Red Cross public service programs on a national level.

All Red Cross work is important. Give so that it may carry on its vital services.

What arresting new thing can be said about the Red Cross? What arresting new thing can be said about the human impulse to help others when they need help? Say a new thing about that warm, generous impulse and you have said a new thing about the Red Cross.

But we are not going to try to say anything new and different about the Red Cross or about how it implements the desire of millions of Americans to extend a helping hand when trouble strikes. We are content with the old things that have been said time and again during the many decades of Red Cross service.

Disaster is not selective; disaster can suddenly blight any community. Floods, tornadoes, epidemics, explosions, fires—these are no respecters of persons or of towns. They come all at once, and when they come the human beings involved need prompt, generous assistance. They may need food, clothing, medicines, shelter; they may need help in rebuilding from the ruins of their lives.

When such things happen, Americans want to provide all those things for the victims of disaster. The Red Cross is in large measure their strong collective hand to lift up the fallen, to care for the injured, to feed the hungry, to clothe and shelter those bereft of their possessions. These are old things, said many times. They are worth saying again. The Red Cross needs the help of all of us so that it can help those in distress.

For the relief and the health of your fellow Americans, in service and civilian walks, give as generously as you possibly can.

ONE WAY TO MEASURE

If anyone doubts that science is becoming ever more important in our lives, note these figures: The U.S. government will spend about $9.1 billion for scientific research and development during the current 1961 fiscal year. That's a half-billion more than last year.

The greater amount, $8.5 billion, is slated for actual research work; $600 million will go for construction of new facilities.

NO WONDER

One explanation why there is no great sale of American cars in some overseas areas may be found in information from export specialists in New York. A model of the so-called "low priced three" retails for about $20,000 in Brazil, for example.

Of this amount, $2,500 is the price of the car. Shipping and other charges add about $500. The balance, $17,000, goes for import duties.

IMPORTANCE OF HOSPITALS

More than half of all deaths in the United States now occur in hospitals. This fact, says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., reflects the growing use being made of hospital facilities for the diagnosis and treatment of serious illnesses.

Another interesting and complementary fact is reported by the Health Insurance Council: Over 130 million people in the U.S. carry hospitalization insurance. This is more than double the number only 12 years ago.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
REPRESENTATIVE REPUBLIC

This is a representative republic, controlled by a written Constitution and by Acts of Congress as interpreted by the Supreme Court. By a representative republic is meant a government chosen by the people at elections for specific terms of office and with limited responsibility. Under the American Constitution, these limitations are stated in very general terms, but as the economic and political life of the country has grown increasingly complex, laws have had to be passed which in 1787 would not have been thought necessary and the Constitution has been modified to meet these new conditions. This particularly applies to matters of inter-state commerce, of public welfare and of the general defense.

When Theodore Roosevelt and Robert La Follette favored the Referendum and Recall, they were regarded as wild radicals. Today, both these ideas are recommended by men and women who regard themselves as conservatives. They agitate for direct action against the Congress, the Court and other government officials with whose views and actions they disagree. This would be the Referendum and Recall. It would bring us closer to a democracy than to a republic.

The dissatisfaction with the Court arises from the "Communist decisions" and from the Brown Decision which dealt with the question of segregation. The principal objection to many of the recent decisions of the Court is that they are, in reality, acts of legislation, the Court assuming a function to which it is not designated. One of my correspondents writes:

"But we cannot lie down and die, as the men in Korea had to do, while we are betrayed by our own government. If there are men in our judiciary, government, education, etc., ad infinitum, betraying us, it is our duty to expose them and get rid of them before they succeed in destroying our country. These all sound like platitudes—that's how platitudes are born."

This is a profound emotional response to a grave sense of injustice. There is too great a tendency to call everything crackpot which is not currently fashionable. The fact is that over the country groups are organizing themselves in opposition to what they regard as a negation of the American philosophy of government. There are, for instance, about 100 conservative clubs on campuses and the number is increasing. "Young Americans for Freedom" is an exciting youth body, outspokenly conservative. "The John Birch Society" consists of adults, organized all over the country, to advocate special causes such as the impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren. They publish a magazine, "American Opinion."

The principal conservative publication is the "National Review," the circulation of which increases although it does not receive much advertising from business firms. This weekly publication has gathered together a group of brilliant writers, mindful of the "New Republic" in the days of Walter Lippmann and Herbert Croly. Russell Kirk in Chicago, edits a quarterly, the "University Bookman," which is conservative and intellectual.

In addition to these publications are numerous pamphlets, newsletters, opinion circulators of every type of thought, some of which need to be taken seriously by the student of politics and social conditions, and others, of course, must be pushed aside because they represent blatant opportunism. But even the latter are interesting because one wonders where the support comes from. The "hate" sheets are particularly shocking and the question is who puts up the money for untruthful statements and miserable distortions. Yet, even such publications give evidence of depth of discontent and discouragement, not among the economically unfortunate, but among all classes, particularly the professionals, physicians, dentists, lawyers.

Such movements are usually not reported because they really do not make news unless they coalesce and nominate someone for the Presidency, as the Hillman faction of the labor movement built up the personality of Fiorello La Guardia or as the Left Wing of the New Deal came into power during Franklin D. Roosevelt's second term. It is difficult to report a silence or a resentment or an irritation. Yet out of such emotions come all popular responses to government.

Conservatives are so varied in their ideas and their intensity that they have produced no national leader, such as Robert A. Taft, who Senator Barry Goldwater is a rallying point. Politically, conservatism cannot be limited to Republicans, since the center of such thinking is undoubtedly in the South, and in this country a political grouping must be around a party and a new political party can only come into existence with an affirmative program.

The Mature Parent
Don't Misread Flattery
As Child's Competition

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:
I think that my 13-year-old daughter is jealous of me. I can't talk to her about it. It's always with my friends or neighbors. She'll interrupt their conversation with me and try to keep their attention by talking about her homework, her school friends—anything at all to stop me talking to them. A neighbor says she has a problem of "competitiveness" with me. . . .

ANSWER: Nonsense.
You're a woman. A child of 13 can't compete with you. To compete with someone, you have to be evenly matched.

But it's certainly interesting that you could consider it possible.
Why do you? Why do you see this behavior as hostile and jealous? Why haven't you seen that instead of "competing" with you, your daughter is flatterer? She isn't interested in cutting you out with your friends. She's interested in the approval of people for whom you feel friendship and respect.

That's not competition. It's trust of mother. How quick we are to belittle our importance to children! Buddy has a tantrum never because he has been denied the balm of our genuine attention but because he's "frustrated" over breaking a toy. Linda blows up at us never because we are the people she can trust with her discouragement but because she is "adolescent." A daughter tries to make friends with our friends never because she trusts our judgment but because she is "competitive." Really, these days our heads are so stuffed with bargain basement psychology that our hearts haven't a chance to make themselves heard.

Your friends, madam, will stop criticizing your daughter's behavior when you do. The moment you see it as an appealing need to share in what mother enjoys, they will find it appealing too.

I can't make you see it, of course. But I can try. I can tell you that there is no difference whatever between your daughter's 13-year-old eagerness to make friends with your friends and a three-year-old daughter's eagerness to walk around in your high-heeled shoes.

"Competitive" isn't the word that describes this eagerness. And if you insist on applying it, I can only wonder why, why, why.

Abraham A. Ribicoff, new secretary of health, education and welfare who must shepherd President Kennedy's federal aid to education bill through Congress, got a lesson on the need for increasing teachers' pay from his son, Peter. The young man has an M. A. from Stanford and has been teaching in California because he likes the work and will make a career of it.

Peter remarked one day that when he looked out over his school's parking lot, it wasn't hard to tell which cars belonged to professors. They were the beat up jobs, five and six years old. The students drove to school in new class cars.

BIGGEST PROBLEM of holding a Hollywood premiere in Washington since the President started going to the flicks is getting the crowd inside the theater. Everyone insists on standing outside to see if Kennedy will arrive unexpectedly.

At the recent premiere of "Exodus," many showgoers even refused to take their seats when told that the rumor of Kennedy's expected arrival was definitely false. Another rumor had it that the Secret Service was debunking the first rumor to clear the lobby.

Finally Attorney General Robert Kennedy did arrive. Seeing the President's brother satisfied most of the rubberneckers. A few diehards, however, were still waiting outside after the show started.

THE REPUBLICAN National Committee recently mailed a nonpartisan letter to both Democratic and Republican brass throughout the country. The salutations were the same on each letter including the one to President Kennedy. It began, "Dear Sir or Madam."

Civil Service—Another series of New York State Civil Service job opportunities for which application will be accepted up to March 27, 1961 includes titles in building construction, engineering, industrial relations, chemistry, forestry, occupational therapy, museum and library work, law stenography and photography. Competitive Civil Service examinations will be held on April 29, 1961 for the following specific titles in these general fields: Assistant Sanitary Engineer, Associate Mechanical Estimator, Machinist Foreman, Construction Wage Rate Investigator, Senior Construction Wage Rate Investigator, Senior Occupational Therapist (physiotherapy), Associate Chemist, Junior Forest Surveyor, Associate Curator (interpretation), Curator (history), Assistant Librarian, Supreme Court—Kings County, Law Stenographer, Supreme Court—First Judicial District, Public Librarian, Film Production Aide, Junior Photographer and Supervisor of Medical Illustration and Photography.

Education—The War Orphans Educational Program provides financial aid for the education of children of deceased veterans of World War I, World War II or the Korean conflict. Generally the program applies to children between the ages of eighteen and twenty-three, although it is possible in some cases for children to begin school before eighteen and to continue after twenty-three. Under this federal program the government pays $110 a month for every month spent in school on a full time basis. Lower rates are paid for part-time study. Eligible children may receive up to 36 months of education under this program.

Legislation: Action on veterans' legislation has gotten underway in this session of Congress. Thirty-six Senators have sponsored a bill which would give peacetime GI benefits to veterans who served in the United States Armed Forces after January 31, 1955: A peacetime GI benefit bill passed the Senate in the 86th Congress but was not approved by the United States House of Representatives. The G.I. Bill for peacetime veterans proposes to extend educational and training benefits to them similar in nature to those granted for the Korean conflict. Legislation is also under consideration which would permit veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict to take up their lapsed National Service Life Insurance policies again within a two year period after the passage of the proposed measure. HR 4011 has been introduced in the House of Representatives, a major purpose of which is to provide a 7 per cent increase in compensation rates for service connected disabilities. Also introduced along these lines is HR 3087, a measure which would provide an increase of 20 per cent in the rates of compensation for service connected disabilities incurred in armed combat. This latter proposed legislation does not clash with HR 4011 because it would only give consideration to a higher rate of disability compensation to those veterans who received combat disabilities, whereas HR 4011 would provide for general over-all increase for all veterans receiving compensation. HR 3745 is of particular interest to WW I Veterans. It is actually entitled the "World War I Pension Act of 1961." A World War veteran under the terms of this bill is defined as a person who served in the Armed Forces between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918. This WW I pension bill would provide monthly pension rates for WW I veterans in excess of $100 and would set annual income limitations at $2,400 for a veteran without dependents and $3,600 for a veteran with dependents. The bill, moreover, would eliminate from consideration as income in determining annual limitations benefits received from the Social Security Act, Railroad Act and other annuities and pensions. Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted to the NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans' Service Agency at 32 Main Street, Kingston, New York.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

GENERATING POWER
BABSON PARK, Mass., March 3—It has long been thought by scientists that the sun should some day give us free power. Unfortunately, the clouds and storms have prevented this. Furthermore, nations in different latitudes would get different amounts of sun power, and all latitudes would get varying power according to the time of year.

Harnessing Power of Gravity
I again call readers' attention to the work which the Gravity Research Foundation of New Boston, N. H., is doing in fundamental physics. By giving grants to colleges the Foundation hopes to interest students in harnessing gravity to supply free power anywhere in small units. But first it must discover a partial insulator, or absorber, of gravity.

The Foundation now has the world's best files on gravity and is giving $1,000 annual awards for the best original essays upon the subject. These essays average over eighty a year and come from the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, and other countries.

Discoveries in Space Exploration
While the Defense Department of the United States, Russia, Great Britain, and other countries have been spending billions on missiles, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company has been making some very important experiments. By the use of microwaves and other processes they have succeeded in sending signals through space hundreds of miles above the earth, with power waves "bounced" from one orbiting object, or man-made satellite, to another.

These experiments have aroused in me a great interest in "space travel." I am not interested in having men go to the moon or having the military attack any enemy from a hundred or more miles up in the air. I, however, am greatly interested in the work of the Telephone Company. This will first be used in sending messages and television waves. I earnestly watch the newspapers each day for such "Space News."

Waves Showering the Earth
The next step will be to capture and harness the electric waves which are coming toward us every hour of every day. They cannot be shut off by clouds or storms; they fall upon all nations equally. Their power, all of which now goes to waste, is terrific. I believe that the telephone and electric utilities will combine to concentrate these waves over all nations and give each free power. This would be far better and cheaper than the use of uranium. My use of the words "free power" refers only to the generation of electric power. Distribution systems will continue to be needed. Hence I am more bullish on electric power company securities because they may be generating costs.

I forecast that each of the 50 largest countries in the United Nations will have its own "transformers" in the sky securing electricity from the radiation off the thousands of galaxies in the sky. For years the astronomers have known of these galaxies and of the electrical rays they are emitting, but their intensity has been known only since the "Space Age" discoveries and measurements.

I understand that the future space program will now be under the personal attention of Vice President Lyndon Johnson. He says—we may expect the landing of a planetary spacecraft in 1962; and in 1963 the safe landing of certain instruments under the direction of Dr. Werner von Braun, now of the Huntsville Center, can be depended upon to make more new and important discoveries.

These governmental developments will primarily be to warn us of what the Russians, or other potential enemies, may be doing as well as to give us knowledge of impending hurricanes and other destructive forces. Although paid for by us, they will be given freely to all nations. The next step will be the study of these electrical currents which will finally be harnessed to give each nation free power. This would do much to hasten world peace.

P. S. In fairness to readers I should add that the nuclear fusion research with hydrogen obtained from water or air or chemicals such as lithium may even give free power before the harnessing of electric waves above described.

Killer Shot Down Police Chief Is Slain Trying to Serve Warrant

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP)—Police Chief C. Ed Newton was shot and killed Friday night by a man he was trying to arrest. The killer was then slain in a blazing gun battle with other officers.

The husky Newton, 63 years old, had headed the police force in this winter resort for 27 years. He was slain by Willie (Eagle Eye) Gray, 48-year-old Negro.

Newton was the third successive Southern Pines police chief to be killed in line of duty. The others were killed in the 1930s: one by a convict being taken to prison and the second by a boot-legger stopped for speeding.

Newton was shot at Gray's house, where the chief and four other officers had gone to serve a warrant charging Gray with assault on a female. The warrant was sworn out by Gray's daughter, Carrie Campbell. Police said Gray had beaten her.

Newton took the other officers with him because, police said, Gray had warned after a previous arrest that they would have to kill him if they tried to arrest him again. Gray had been arrested several times, chiefly on drunkenness charges.

Pat Brown Rates Nixon Tough Foe As Coast Entry

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—California Gov. Edmund G. Brown said Friday night that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon would be "hard to whip" if he ran for the California governorship in 1962.

Brown told a meeting of the California Democratic Council: "Should Mr. Nixon take the plunge again, the Republicans will support him all the way. They will spend a fortune here."

"They will flood us with Goldwater. (Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona is a leader of the GOP right wing.)"

"They will wage a costly and vigorous registration drive. And the extremists among them will attack all things Democratic."

Brown hasn't said whether he'll be a candidate for re-election. Nixon, who just returned to California this week, has not indicated his political plans.

Tensions High In Scotland on U. S. Sub Base

HOLY LOCH, Scotland (AP)—American sailors won over the Scots of Holy Loch today—especially the lassies—as they drank and danced into the early hours after arriving to set up a Polaris submarine base.

But tensions ran high in this normally quiet hamlet on the Firth of Clyde as hundreds of Scottish lowlanders and English—regarded by many here as foreigners—poured into town to demonstrate against the base.

Organized by the British Committee for Nuclear Disarmament led by aged philosopher Bertrand Russell, the demonstrators gathered for a march on the pier where the U. S. supply ship Proteus docked Friday to serve as a floating base for the American submarines armed with nuclear missiles.

"I have warned the crew not to interfere," said Capt. Richard B. Laning, commander of the Proteus and its 950-man crew.

Fire Destroys Marlboro Barn

A large barn on a fruit farm located on Lattintown Road about 2½ miles from Marlboro burned to the ground Friday afternoon in a fire of undetermined origin.

Two tractors and a spraying machine were removed from the barn, owned by Barrett Wygant, and saved. A stock of apple crates and other miscellaneous farm equipment was lost in the blaze which, it is believed, may possibly have been caused by defective wiring.

The two-story frame structure was approximately 50 feet wide and 70 feet long. Fire was spotted about 2:15 p. m. pouring out of the roof.

The Wygant residence about 30 feet from the barn was undamaged. Russell McConnell, head of the fire police of Marlboro, Fire Department said a wind was blowing away from the residence.

Another barn to the north and a two-car garage to the east of the flaming structure were not damaged.

Three pieces of fire apparatus were dispatched by Marlboro Fire Department under the command of Chief Richard McMullen. A couple of pumps from Milton were also dispatched to the scene.

Monday's Tour

as did Rockefeller, a Republican. Rockefeller had spent thousands of dollars of his own to refurbish the mansion since he took office two years ago.

The governor estimated that he lost $100,000 worth of paintings. Seven others, valued at $25,000, also were destroyed. They had been left at the mansion by Harriman.

The mansion had been the home of three governors who became presidents—Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

When in Albany, Rockefeller now will stay at a hotel.

The fire apparently started in the main drawing room on the first floor. The cause has not been determined.

Treaty Hits Snag

WASHINGTON (AP)—The treaty for the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development has run into unexpected trouble in a Senate committee, but efforts are under way to save it by adding a clarifying reservation.

The opposition cropped up when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee met Wednesday to consider the treaty, which would ratify U. S. membership in the 20-nation agreement for economic cooperation. President Kennedy has strongly backed the OECD.

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., told a witness at a foreign policy hearing Friday the treaty is "in trouble" and that mail coming in is running "three to two in opposition."

Keeping Griffis Base Rests With Kennedy, Is View

ROME, N. Y. (AP)—Only intervention by President Kennedy will keep an Air Force procurement center at Griffis Air Force Base, Mayor Charles T. Lanigan says.

The mayor, appearing dejected, returned from Washington Friday night where he and New York lawmakers tried for three days to get definite word on reported Air Force plans to shut down the center.

At stake are the jobs of 6,200 civilians.

Lanigan said the New Yorkers were unable to get any definite information in Washington.

He said all had "come to the inescapable conclusion that the only possible avenue which could bring about a reversal rests with the White House and more emphatically with the President himself."

In Washington, the Air Force promised Friday to delay its decision on whether to shut down the Griffis facility until residents and offices in the Rome-Utica area had a chance to express their views.

A negotiating committee, formed by the New Yorkers, said it would file a brief with the Defense Department by next Wednesday outlining the economic impact that any reduction in activities at Griffis would have on the Utica-Rome area, which has a large labor surplus. A copy of the brief will be sent to Kennedy, a spokesman said.

Cold War Heroes' Story Raises New Question on 3

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—The story of two cold war heroes, Capt. John R. McKone and Freeman B. Olmstead, raised new questions today about the fate of three fellow crewmen missing since their RB47 reconnaissance bomber was shot down by the Soviets last July 1.

Answering questions publicly for the first time since their return from a Soviet prison, the two Air Force officers calmly told about the brief air battle that heightened international tension for months.

McKone, 28, and Olmstead, 25, revealed that the RB47, previously described as unarmed, had 20-millimeter cannons in the tail and that they returned to the Soviet MIG jet fighter that sent the RB47 down in flames.

Accounting for references to the plane as being unarmed, they described the cannons as purely defensive weapons.

Whether the RB47 was unarmed remained in the realm of Air Force semantics, but many real mysteries about the mission remained unsolved. McKone and Olmstead skirted salient questions about the object of the mission, what happened to three members of the crew, and what information they gave the Soviets.

The two poised young men told about extreme hardships in their Soviet prison, saying they had little more than hope and faith in God to sustain them for seven months.

McCauley was proceeding along a westerly direction along the lower Cherrytown Road about a mile and a half south of the Samsonville road, Town of Rochester, when his car left the road on a sweeping right curve for reasons unknown.

There comes a time in most women's lives when foundation garments are in order. If your family includes a young lady about to buy her first ones, why don't you give her a copy of Cornell Extension Bulletin Number 1009, "Posture and Foundation Garments?"

In this bulletin, specialists at the New York State College of Home Economics . . . at Cornell University . . . tell the reader how to select brassieres, girdles, corsets, and corselets. They point out that there are foundation garments for every figure, every costume, and every pocketbook. And they tell you how to check the fit of the different garments, how to put them on, and how to care for them.

Dr. Askew spoke on activity participation. His thoughts were directed in four areas, namely: work, play, love, religion. He expressed his views that the child should engage in recreation for the love and fun of the game and not for competition. A good program should serve the purpose of recreating.

Bibbo commented on home-school relationship. He said he thought the home had a definite responsibility in creating good home-school relations. Many times problems are placed on the school to solve when the home should shoulder some of this responsibility.

Gill spoke on social relations in community, school and home. He believes it the duty of all concerned to direct the child to share, and to tell the truth. A child should not be punished without explaining to the child why a wrong has been done and we should direct the thinking of the child to see why it was wrong.

Several questions were asked from the floor. Many suggestions relating to the topic were offered by those in the audience.

Mrs. McNamara, chairman of the program committee, and the Rev. Harold Schadevall, club president, expressed the opinion that this was an outstanding meeting and planned to have other panel discussions in the future.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Scout Cookie Sale Starts Next Week

The annual Ulster County Girl Scout Cookie Sale will be held this year March 10 through March 19.

This year's co-chairman, Mrs. William Haberland of Rosendale, and Mrs. Horace Brown of Kingston, announced that over two-thousand Girl Scouts and Brownies of the Ulster County Council will participate in this year's sale.

Proceeds from the sale of Girl

Scout Cookies are used to cover the many expenses arising from running the council during the year. Maintenance of the council office in Kingston, training facilities for Girl Scout and Brownie Leaders, and maintenance of Ulster County's own Girl Scout Camp are only a few of the expenses which must be met.

Camp Wendy, Walkill, with a lake, offering boating and other waterfront sports, tents and cabins, a complete dining hall and an infirmary, offer Ulster County Girl Scouts and Brownies all of the camping facilities and the opportunity for outdoor training that are available to Girl Scouts all over the United States.

Last year, approximately 1,300 girls enjoyed the facilities at Camp Wendy. The expenses must be met by the Girl Scouts annual fund raising drive, the cookie sale.

Girl Scout cookies, a product of the Biscuit Corporation, are made with pure vegetable shortening and are available in four flavors: chocolate and vanilla sandwich cremes, Scout Teas, mints and Savannahs (a nut-butter cookie).

Girl Scout cookies are not sold commercially. They are sold only on a "house to house" basis by the girls themselves. Orders for cookies will be taken from Friday, March 10, through Sunday, March 19. Cookies will be delivered Thursday, April 13.

MANY NEIGHBORS LOVE TO GOSSIP

Q: I live alone in a two room apartment. On occasion I invite some friends in for a buffet supper or to play cards. My fiancé is of course always included in these invitations. He usually stays on after the others leave to help me with the dishes and straighten up the place, and then he leaves. I appreciate his help very much since it would take me twice as long to do it alone and I do have to get up early to go to business. It never occurred to me that there could possibly be any cause for gossip in this until I overheard a neighbor pass a remark about it the other day. Will you please tell me if it is wrong for him to stay on after the other guests leave?

A: Your fiancé should leave with the other guests. For him to stay on alone with you would, I'm sorry to say, provide food for gossip among your neighbors.

Announcing An Engagement
Q: I have just been told that it is not proper to send out engraved engagement announcements. We're not having a party to announce the engagement and I had intended to send engraved announcements to our many friends and relatives, many of them living out of town. This information puts a crimp in our plans. Is what I have been told true?

A: It is true. Correctly, the engagement is announced in the newspapers and by letters to intimate friends and close relatives who quickly spread the news.

Thanking a Family of Four
Q: What is the correct way to acknowledge a wedding present sent by a family consisting of mother and father and two daughters. Is it necessary to write one note to Mr. and Mrs. and another to the daughters?

A: If the daughters are living home with their parents, one note addressed to the mother thanking her, her husband, and the daughters is sufficient.

DONALD R. MAC COLLAM

Named Chairman Of Young GOPers In 3rd District

The election of Donald R. Mac Collam of 134 Wrentham Street as chairman of the State Young Republican Clubs in the Third Judicial District took place Thursday night.

Also elected was Miss Joyce Yerry of 133 Highland Avenue, as secretary of the organization. The Third Judicial District is comprised of the seven counties of Albany, Rensselaer, Schoharie, Greene, Columbia, Sullivan and Ulster.

Mac Collam is a former state trooper and is presently a private investigator having offices in Kingston. He was the founder and the first president of the Ulster County Young Republican Club.

Miss Yerry is the chairman of the Ulster County Young Republican Club's Labor Committee and the Editor of the organization's newsletter.

At the meeting at the New Heidelberg Hotel in Catskill Thursday night, it was announced that Mac Collam was the logical choice for chairman because of the excellent job the local Young Republican Club was by far, the most active and the strongest in the seven counties.

By virtue of the size of the local membership, the Ulster County Club was entitled to 5 votes at the convention, there being a total of 21 eligible votes.

Mac Collam and Miss Yerry will assume the functions of their office at the annual meeting of the State Association of the Young Republicans in May.

Explain Federal Tax Form Usages

Many taxpayers who used Card Form 1040A for 1959 filing, may not be able to use the same form again because of increased earnings in 1960.

Local district director James A. O'Hara suggested that affected taxpayers consider the use of the short Form 1040W. This two-page form may be used by an individual whose income consisted solely of salary and wages, regardless of the amount and not more than $200 of income from interest and dividends.

The tax official added that the Form 1040W allows eligible taxpayers the benefits of: Head of Household or Surviving Spouse; Sick Pay Exclusion; Dividends Received Credit; Estimated Tax Payment Credit and; Itemizing deductions for contributions; interest payments and medical expenses.

The revenue official pointed out that neither the Form 1040W nor the Form 1040A is designed for the computation of retirement income credit. Form 1040 should be used for this purpose.

The director reminded taxpayers whose income status permits the use of the 1040A, to again use the Card Form 1040A that they received in the mail. The requirements for the use of this form have not changed.

Liz Taylor Now Seriously Ill; Has Pneumonia

LONDON (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor's doctor said today she has pneumonia and is seriously ill.

The announcement by Dr. C. H. Goldman came a few hours after he and two other physicians treated the 29-year-old film beauty for a lung congestion in her hotel suite, where she had been suffering from influenza.

An oxygen tent was taken to the hotel as a precautionary measure.

A hotel spokesman earlier said the lung congestion apparently had cleared up and that the movie star's condition was improving.

But after a visit before noon Dr. Goldman announced the diagnosis of pneumonia.

"She is seriously ill," said Dr. Goldman.

Miss Taylor has suffered a series of ailments since early last October, when she was scheduled to start making the movie "Cleopatra" for 20th Century-Fox.

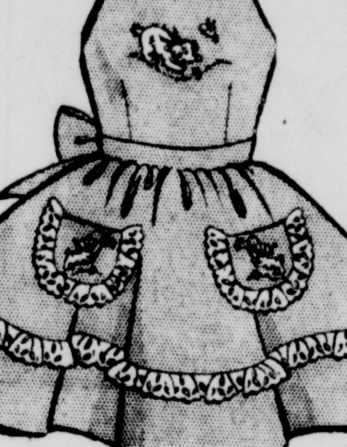

Because of her ill health shooting was repeatedly postponed and finally Director Rouben Mamoulian resigned. He was replaced by Joseph Mankiewicz, who had hoped to get the film finally under way later this month.

A further complication has been a wrangle between the producing company and London insurance brokers over how much compensation should be paid for the costly filming delays.

Saved From Cancer
Every seven minutes an American is saved from dying of cancer. With early diagnosis, twice as many could be saved, says the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society.

East Holds Ace and Aids South

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here is another game contract that almost anyone would reach. South has 16 high card points and a proper no-trump opening and North's 11 points clearly warrant a raise to game.

Normally 27 points will produce nine tricks, but this time neither North nor South holds a spade stopper, and because East and West also have the ace of clubs, South is faced with the prospect of at least five losing tricks.

Fortunately for him, West opens a heart, so South sees one chance for his contract. He must sneak one club through and then run off his top tricks in the red suits.

South succeeded in making his contract. He went up with dummy's ace of hearts and led the ten of clubs.

East thought about putting the ace right up, but he wasn't looking at any cards except his own and dummy's so East played low. Now South put up the queen of clubs. It didn't matter what he did at this point, but it might have mattered if West held the club ace.

In that case the queen of clubs play was calculated to indicate that East held the club jack and to conceal South's weakness in spades.

Bear

There are animals on the maps of every state in the nation. Thousands of places are named for birds, animals, fish, reptiles, and insects.

What are the most popular animal names? Bears, beavers, elk, deer, buffalo, and eagles seem to lead the parade in the West. Take "bear," for instance.

In Utah we have Bear River. In Montana, the towns of Bearcreek and Bearmouth; Point. There are, in fact, almost 100 post offices in the United States with the name Eagle, in one form or another.

The big game animal, the elk, is popular, too. In Idaho we have two towns—Elk River and Elk City; and just plain Elk shows up in New Mexico. West Virginia has a town named Elk Garden. There is Elkhorn in Nebraska, and Elk Falls in Kansas.

Wyoming has several "Elk" towns—Elk Basin, Elkhorn, Elk Mountain and just Elk. The giant buffalo, has been honored, too. There is Buffalo, New York; Buffalo, Montana; a mountain, Buffalo Hump in Idaho; and many others.

Beavers helped name a lot of places, too. There is Beaver Falls, a town in Pennsylvania; Montana has a Beaverhead, and so does New Mexico. Oregon has Beaver and Beaverton; and Utah has a Beaver Town and a Beaver County.

Deer, moose, antelope, cougars, and wolves—all are honored. Even the porcupine in a small way.

But the skunk? Not one important place has been named for the skunk!

The next time you want to find some animals—just look on a map!

Does Joe Baldwin's Ghost Still Wander the Tracks Searching for Its Head?

The legend of the Maco ghost was born when Joe Baldwin died.

Joe was a railroad conductor 100 years ago—before trains were hitched by modern couplings. In those days trainmen had to stand between cars while connecting and disconnecting them. The cars were joined with chains and pins.

One day in 1867, near Farmer's Turnout—now Maco, North Carolina—Joe was connecting a train. Suddenly the train lurched backward.

Joe was crushed to death. But in his hand was his faithful lantern, still burning eerily in the Carolina moonlight.

Weeks after the tragedy, a mysterious light appeared alongside the tracks. The popular story was that Conductor Baldwin, decapitated, took nightly walks in search of his missing head.

Six years later, a second light appeared. The pair of them would meet, going in opposite directions. Some said that Joe's head was out looking for his body—and vice versa.

Nothing short of the 1886 earthquake could call a temporary halt to Baldwin's trackwalking habits. After that they stopped for a while.

A worker on the railroad line—now called the Atlantic Coast Line—has this to say:

"When I was a very young boy, I remembered my father saying the lights appeared regularly, weaving silently near the trestle over Hood's Creek.

"Some years later, I saw the ghost light one night while returning home from a fishing trip with two neighborhood boys. It seemed to be weaving along directly over the track, about five feet from the ground. When a second light appeared, we took off across a cornpatch like lightning!"

The ghostly light caused one villager to hire a detective to visit the place, all the way from Washington.

But Joe Baldwin was too fast for the sleuth, whose only official comment was that the lights were not a jack-o-lantern.

A machine gun detachment from nearby Fort Bragg at Fayetteville was set up to solve or blow holes in the mystery. They did neither.

One railroad official—a veteran of 40 years railroading—has seen the light from the cab of his locomotive. He knows of times when trains have stopped because of the weaving lanterns.

One time, he and his engineer began to brake the train upon seeing the lights. But the lights disappeared.

Scoffers explain that the lights are nothing but the reflection of automobile lights from a nearby highway. But there were no automobiles in 1867.

Also, the railroad has been rerouted—with no apparent effects on "Joe Baldwin's" little game.

Nor does the weather or seasons seem to be connected with the lights. Sometimes they vanish for months at a time, only to reappear several nights in rapid succession.

The mystery of the Maco ghost is as far from solution today as it was in the 1860's.

—Steve Libby

The engineer threw on the brakes and the mysterious lights disappeared.

Minnesota Senator Remembers Farm Auctions as Happy and Sad Times

(This is another in a series written by famous people in which they tell the most important experience that helped shape their lives.)

EUGENE J. MCCARTHY
Senator from Minnesota

To a boy, a farm auction is an exciting event. There are big crowds, good spirit, free lunches, and the unusual experiences of drinking coffee served in a tin cup. There is the chant of the auctioneer and the excitement of bidding.

But a farm auction is a sad affair when it means that neighbors and farmers are being driven off the farm to face the uncertainty of trying to rent another farm or of seeking employment in a city.

The farm depression in the Midwest began in the 1920's and continued into the period of the Great Depression of the 1930's.

My earliest memories of farm auctions, which I attended with my father, are not happy ones.

The farmers were people whom my father had known for many years. They were hard-working and honest.

In the face of low prices for farm produce, no matter how hard they worked they were unable to meet the interest charges and other expenses of farming and still support themselves and their families. Foreclosure and sales to avoid foreclosure were a common pattern.

At these sales, the farmers who were still hanging on were ashamed to offer such low prices for fine horses, good cows, and machinery which had been very expensive when new; yet no one had the money to offer higher prices. There was a helpless feeling among the farmers and the merchants of the small towns.

No one knew who would be next. There was much talk that "something ought to be done about this."

There were some who had ideas as to what ought to be done, but there was no practical way to put the ideas into effect.

This experience helped to teach me that we must look first to the needs of the people, and that when these needs are great, we should survey our private and public resources and then determine a policy and work out a program of action.

Our society cannot operate well if each person and each family is left to stand alone against the world. The role of government is a limited one, but nonetheless a very necessary one. These early experiences, together with more direct understanding of the Depression itself, convinced me that the role of government as an instrument for assisting individuals and other groups in society is a vital one.

They persuaded me, too, that this role can be fulfilled in such a way as to protect and expand the areas of freedom in our society.

CANBERRA, Australia — School children at Canberra, Australia's capital, have struck a bonanza digging for wriggling gold.

They are selling worms to the Australian National University for more than two dollars per pound.

The university's medical school uses the worms in its studies of human muscle behavior. Scientists need chemicals from the bodies of the worms that cannot be found easily anywhere else.

When the university found they were running low on crawlers, they advertised. Winter in North America is summer in Australia. So school kids on vacation leaped at the chance to make some spending money.

When the university staff arrived for work they discovered hundreds of children lined up—their worms under their arms. By noontime the $550 that they put aside to buy worms had run out, and worms were still coming in.

By nighttime the university staff had spent another $550.

Most of the children took away about three dollars for their worms. But the best dig brought one boy $34.

The first 200 worms were "snap frozen" in liquid air. They will keep about four years. The others must be used right away, because they ran out of frozen storage space.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS

A PMovie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The pilot season is rolling full-steam in Hollywood these days, with millions being gambled on hopeful TV series.

Sponsors are buying early this year. That news has sent the film factories scurrying to produce new attractions to replace the season's casualties. Nowhere is there more scurrying than at 20th Century-Fox.

Only Two Successes

The studio got into TV late, so far has scored only two successes — "Dobie Gillis" and "Adventures in Paradise." Next year may be different. A big chunk of coin is being dropped into six proposed series with Roy Huggins, late of "Maverick," in charge.

This flurry of activity bore looking into, so I visited the lot to see what was going on. On Stage 11 I found Ginger Rogers, ready for her fifth leap into marriage (to producer William Marshall) and her first into a TV series. It's called "The Ginger Rogers Show."

"I play twins," she explained. "One is a writer, intensely practical, hard-headed, direct. The other is a designer, flighty, impractical, living in a world of dreams. Charlie Ruggles plays my uncle."

Over on Stage 14 they were shooting the pilot of "The Hunters," an hour-long hopeful about big game hunting in Africa. There was Brett Halsey making love to Felicia Farr with the veiled in back.

More Hopefuls

On the back lot, the movie makers were aiming at the sure-fire market with another hour effort called "The Jayhawkers." A couple of new lads, Jack Gaynor and Jack Betts, were being groomed to head this project.

Already filmed are three other lead chapters of hopeful series: "Bus Stop," using characters from the movie—Tuesday Weld in the Marilyn Monroe role, Gary Lockwood as Don Murphy, plus Joseph Cotten, Marilyn Maxwell and Buddy Ebsen.

"Marge," another movie retread with Cynthia Pepper in the Jeanne Crain part.

Get Squared Away On Facts About Electrical Fuses

By MR. FIX

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Next time an electric house fuse blows, don't curse. Be thankful it did. This little safety valve has just prevented your house wiring from being damaged. It possibly has headed off a serious fire.

If you've just plugged in something extra on a particular circuit—a new lamp or appliance—and the fuse has blown, it indicates that that circuit was carrying all the load it could. Eliminate the extra item and see if the lights stay on.

The ordinary circuit in any home will carry 15 amps—about 1600 to 1800 watts of electricity. You will find in your fuse box a number of fuses, four or six or more, one for each circuit.

Make a List

Knowing which fuse protects which outlets will save some hunting when a fuse blows. Some quiet afternoon remove fuses one at a time while a companion tells you which lights in the house are affected. Then make a list and fasten it to the inside of the fuse box.

Changing a fuse is simple, but be certain to take special precautions.

Pull the switch handle so that it is in the off position. If there is no handle you may find one or two cartridge fuse holders. Remove these to turn off current. Replace the old fuse with one of the same rating, never with a heavier fuse. Don't stand on damp concrete. Place a dry wooden board on the floor before you start.

Juice Eater

Often a motor on a washing machine or air conditioner will cause a fuse to blow when it starts up. Although it may pull only a small amount of current when it is running, the surge of power needed to start up may be several times the amount the fuse can carry. Don't use a heavier fuse. Get a time-delay fuse, one that is slow to blow out. They are available under a variety of trade names.

If the overload lasts too long, the fuse will blow out like any other. If a washing machine is overloaded the motor may not be able to overcome the inertia and will continue to draw the heavy current load.

Watch Out

If your circuits are protected by cartridge type fuses—fiber body, metal ends—a knowledge of which fuses protect which circuits is even more important.

Be very careful when removing this type of fuse. Even though it is blown out, the metal end on the power line side can still give you a jolt. If there doesn't seem enough fiber body between ends to get a grip, pry the fuse out with a wooden stick.

Some of the newer cartridge fuses are renewable. The ends can be unscrewed and the metal wire inside replaced. Replacement wires cost a few pennies.

25-Watt Test

If a fuse continues to blow check for trouble. A 25-watt bulb put in place of the fuse will glow dimly if there's an overload. If there is a short it will burn brightly. Try disconnecting items one at a time until the light goes out. If you can't locate the trouble, get professional help—the trouble may be inside the wall of your home.

New Homes Have Air Conditioning

Take a look at the year-round air conditioning now going into an increasing number of new homes.

These units have proved their ability to cut cleaning bills for rugs, draperies, and upholstery. Dust in the air is apprehended by the glass fibers in the filter, and never gets a chance to reach living quarters.

Economy, Good Looks Show In Contemporary Ranch Home

"The Vanguard" is a home I took to instantly, and I think you will too. It is a happy blend of beauty and economy of construction that will appeal to a great many families.

The "beauty" part of the blend is pretty obvious—just look at the artist's sketch; it shows a home that has appealing proportions, with an interesting combination of peaked and flat roof punctuated by four "rooflights" for controlled natural lighting in the living room. A touch of greenery highlights the exterior in the form of a planter bed extending across the front.

There is economy here without skimping. The house is basically a rectangle, which means regular, straight walls with their simplified carpentry. By putting a less expensive flat roof on the breezeway and garage, further economy is achieved. Actually, there is no need for a peaked roof here, for insulation against heat is not required at this point.

But let's turn to the interior of "The Vanguard," to see how well it fits the needs of today's families. Are there enough bedrooms? Yes. Three bedrooms, comfortable, well lighted and ventilated, are practically a "must" for families with more than one child. Three bedrooms are also needed by many smaller families, because an extra room makes it possible to invite friends and relatives to visit overnight or longer without displacing members of your own family.

Is the kitchen sufficient for the demands of modern living? Here again the answer is "yes." There is space, if you wish, to install a washer and dryer, along with the usual lineup of counter area, appliances and equipment. Or a dinette set for informal meals is another possibility. During the warmer months, outdoor dining can become a reality instead of a wish. There is direct access, via the breezeway, from the kitchen to the privacy of the rear lawn.

Formal dining has a place in this home; a dining area, especially created by means of a china cabinet (it serves as a wall) has its own window and the floor space you'll need for dining furniture. The adjoining living room, with its fireplace and window wall, invite family fun or relaxation, as the case may be.

There are other worthwhile features in "The Vanguard." The closets, for one thing, are quite ample, no matter where they are—bedrooms, linen closets, guest coat closet. There is convenient approach to the kitchen, garage, breezeway and basement through the centralized side entrance. Corner windows help to give the bedrooms an unusual degree of light.

These are some of the things you would want to know in any home in which you are interested. To see every last detail, you can examine the working drawings, available at moderate cost. To obtain them, fill out the accompanying coupon. Be sure to note if you want plans with or without basement. The version without basement uses the basement stairwell as the heater room.

Shield Tank From Direct Sunlight

With a pressure water system, the tank should always be shielded from direct sunlight exposure.

Too much heat can cause expansion of the tank as well as cause the cold-water faucet to emit warm water when turned on.

Wood Is Beautiful

Knocking on wood is a European-inherited superstition intended to bring good luck. But U. S. housewives who demand wood paneling in their homes and wood cabinets and built-ins have a practical streak which supercedes superstition. The ladies like wood because it is beautiful, friendly, and easy to keep polished.

KHS Defeats Middletown, 54-40, to Win DUSO Cage Title

Ohio State Seeks Big 10 Crown; W. Virginia Upset in Tourney

By all odds, Ohio State's top-ranked Buckeyes should beat Michigan State tonight, wrap up the Big Ten championship, and move within one victory of an unbeaten season.

But then anything can happen in college basketball.

The unexpected happened to West Virginia Friday night. The eighth-ranked Mountaineers, winners of the Southern Conference title the past six years, were knocked off by William and Mary 88-76 in the semifinals of the conference's championship tournament. It was one of the major upsets of the campaign.

West Virginia went into the game boasting a 13-game winning streak and a 23-3 record. William and Mary, which never has won a Southern crown, was only 13-9. By the time the firing is over tonight, William and Mary will know whether it or George Washington, surprise 94-87 conqueror of The Citadel in the other Southern semifinal, will qualify for the NCAA tournament. It also will be an important day for Bradley, Kentucky, Vanderbilt, New Mexico State, Morehead, Princeton, Wake Forest, Duke and several other teams whose tournament hopes rest on the outcome of pivotal games on this final big weekend of the season.

If Ohio State (22-0) gets past Michigan State, it need only whip Illinois next Saturday to become the first major team since North Carolina in 1957, to go through a regular season unbeaten. The Buckeyes defeated Michigan State 83-68 on the Spartans' court Feb. 11.

Bradley meets St. Louis in a National TV game, and if the Peoria, Ill., Braves win, they'll force a play-off for the Missouri Valley title with Cincinnati. The Bearcats have completed their league schedule with a 10-2 mark. Bradley is 9-2. The champion will move into the NCAA tournament and the runner-up to the NIT.

Vanderbilt meets Georgia Tech and Kentucky in at Tennessee in the Southeastern Conference. Should Vandy and the Wildcats win (both are 9-4), it would take another play-off to decide the conference's NCAA representative. Mississippi State has clinched the SEC crown but won't go to the NCAA because of the state's unwritten law against competing with Negroes.

New Mexico State, the Border Conference runner-up, faces West Texas State with a chance of moving to within a half game of leading Arizona State, which has completed its season. If successful tonight and in its final game against Hardin Simmons Monday, New Mexico State can tie for the lead.

Morehead, 9-2 in the Ohio Valley, can clinch the title by turning back Eastern Kentucky (8-3). However, if Eastern Kentucky comes out on top, it will mean a three-way play-off, also involving Western Kentucky which ended its campaign at 9-3. Princeton assured itself of at least a tie for the Ivy League crown Friday night by defeating Dartmouth 68-54. The Tiers can clinch it tonight against Harvard.

Utah of the Skyline and Southern California of the Big Five also can clinch conference crowns tonight. Utah, 33-69 winner over Wyoming Friday night, faces second-place Colorado State which humbled Montana 67-49.

USC, 86-85 victor over UCLA in overtime Friday night, takes on Stanford at home.

Loyola of the West Coast Athletic Conference also clinched a tie for the crown by whipping Pacific (Calif.) 76-59. Loyola can take it off by beating Pepperdine next Tuesday.

Top-seeded Wake Forest and Duke will battle it out for the Atlantic Conference title. Each won semifinal games in the league's championship tournament Friday night. Wake Forest by 98-76 over Maryland and the Blue Devils 92-75 over South Carolina.

Wake Forest got a 34-point performance from Hugh Lee Chapman in coming within three points of tying the tournament record. It was also the highest score run up on a Maryland team. Sophomore Art Heyman led Duke with 32 points as the Blue Devils' height and hustle carried them past South Carolina.

Maroon Jayvees Win, 63-39, For 15-3 Mark During Season

Closing an excellent season in convincing fashion, the Kingston High school Jayvees overpowered Middletown, 63-39, at the losers' court last night. Coach Bill Hurley's club won 15 of 18 games, bowing only to Mont Pleasant (2) and Newburgh.

The locals had quarter leads of 15-6, 33-12, and 51-20. It was a rout all the way.

Frank Allen, Paul Natale and Tom Fiore were in double figures for the Maroon Jayvees. Everyone on the squad saw some action.

Robinson Wants Bigger Ring, Threatens to Pull Out of Bout

By CHARLES MAHER

Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Tonight's scheduled middleweight title fight between champion Gene Fullmer and Sugar Ray Robinson was up in the air today.

It was neither off nor on.

An emergency meeting of the State Athletic Commission, promoters, and representatives of the two camps ended in the early morning hours with no decision on whether an ultimatum issued by Robinson Friday night would be met.

The 40-year-old challenger threatened to pull out of his fourth title meeting with the champion from Utah unless the ring at Las Vegas Convention Center was enlarged from slightly more than 16 feet to 18 feet or replaced by a larger ring.

Robinson accused the promoters of favoring Fullmer and said they were trying to make him fight "in a telephone booth."

He contended the 16-foot ring was calculated to help his less agile opponent.

Co-promoter Norman Rothschild said he would try to have the ring enlarged or replaced, but could promise nothing.

Robinson's personal physician, Dr. Robert Holloman, who attended the early morning meeting, said Sugar Ray had not retreated from his decision to go home, if his demand was not satisfied.

Joe Uhl's Second Half Surge Halts 'Deep Freeze' Efforts; Crown Is First Since 1948-49

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Jumpin' Joe Uhl said goodbye to the DUSO League last night at Middletown and his final performance won't be forgotten.

Held to four points during the first half as the home side put the ball in a "deep freeze", the Blonde Bomber threw in 20 markers in a brilliant third and fourth quarter shooting exhibition as Kingston High won a 54-40 decision to clinch the school's first cage title since the 1948-49 season.

This ninth straight decision for Coach Jack Gilligan's club and the 16th in 18 starts this season, was an ulcer one all the way. The home side had been beaten by 32 points in an earlier match at Kingston and it wanted no part of running with the locals this time.

After John Duffner scored the first KHS basket early in the first period, the Middies started their freeze immediately. They held the ball for more than three minutes before shaking Ronnie Smith loose for a layup from underneath.

Albert Brown put his club ahead, 4-2, with another jump shot and again the Middies got possession of the basketball and held on to it for dear life. Guard Dom Roselli knotted the count with only 1:30 remaining in the period with a jumper and with 15 seconds left, Smith went in for a driving layup to send the happy home side into a 6-4 lead at the end of the period. The strategy was paying off, much to the delight of the partisan home fans.

Uhl, who was scoreless during the initial period, broke the ice at the start of the second eight minutes of play with a pair of foul shots. Then a layup by Mike Ferraro shoved KHS ahead, 8-6. Sophomore center Bill Gray knotted the count with a score from near the foul line. It marked the last time the Middies were even with the locals, though they stayed close for more than three periods.

Brown hit from the foul line with a jump shot. Uhl made his first basket, a layup after taking a pass from Ferraro and then Mike sank a pair of fouls to open the gap to six points, 14-8. The Middies were making some mistakes while attempting to keep the ball out and they proved to be costly.

A layup by Gray, Roselli's free throw and another pair of foul shots by Jim Christiano razored the KHS margin to one point, 14-13, with time running out in the first half. To make matters worse, Brown had picked up his third foul and he was sitting on the bench.

Reserve John Falvey tapped in a rebound and then added a foul shot just before the buzzer to send the locals into the dressing room with a 17-13 margin. However, the Middletown freeze had kept the home side in the game.

The old saying, you can't keep a good man down forever, haunted the Middies in the second half. Uhl had been held to one bucket and two free throws in the first 16 minutes of action. He didn't get to handle the ball mainly because his club didn't have possession of it.

Uhl started the third period with a free throw. Gray followed with one for the Middies and then Ferraro and Falvey each made charity tosses for the Maroon five, upping the lead to six points, 20-14, with half the third period played. At this stage, the senior star got hot hands.

He rifled in a jump shot with 3:30 left on the clock. After Christiano hit with a foul for the home side, Joe tallied with another jumper, this time from the foul line, and then hit from the far left side. Gray then tallied two straight baskets for the Middies and Christiano added a free throw before Uhl drove in for a basket and added a foul shot. The three point play boosted the KHS margin to nine points, 29-20, and Ron Cohen's foul shot closed the quarter with the locals ahead by eight points. It was still anybody's battle at this stage.

After Smith tallied for the Middies to start the fourth stanza, Vince Smedes made a foul shot for the champions and then Uhl hit with another jump shot.

Smith retaliated for Middletown but Mr. Uhl threw in a hook from the right side. A tap by Jon Rodiek and Gray's jump shot sliced the KHS lead to five points, 34-29, and the home side envisioned a momentous upset.

Such was not the case. Duffner (and what a game he played), hit for two straight baskets and then Uhl added two free throws. Buckets by Smith and Christiano were offset by Brown's driving layup which upped the margin to nine points, 42-33, with 2:20 left. At this stage Brown was waived to the bench with five personals.

Gray kept the Middies alive with two free throws and a deuce but Smith fouled out with 1:59 remaining and his loss was a serious blow. Smedes made one of two free throws and then Uhl tapped in a rebound, making the score, 45-37, with 1:50 to play.

Christiano fouled out with 1:45 left but Smedes missed a foul shot. Roselli closed the gap to six points with a one hander from the corner but Rodiek fouled Uhl and the big redhead went to the bench with five personals. Joe converted his two chances and they iced the decision. The locals led at this stage, 47-39, with only 55 seconds left to play.

Uhl finished with 24 points, getting eight field goals and sinking eight straight foul shots. Duffner tallied eight points and he was just outstanding. It was his best performance of the season. The others all chipped in with good efforts but this was Uhl's night and it was one of his greatest. He put the heat on the freeze and it resulted in Coach Gilligan's first coaching championship.

Gray was the best scorer for the Middies with 17 markers. He's a real comer and will be around for a couple of more seasons.

Kingston will entertain Clarkstown of the Rockland County League in the first game of the Section Nine playoffs next Friday. Newburgh will play at Haverstraw the same night and the winners will collide on Saturday, March 17, at the Orange County Community College in Middletown.

Snow Spreading Eastward, Rockies Get Seven Inches

A storm which has dumped up to seven inches of snow in the northern Rockies and Great Plains was expected to move slowly eastward today with heavy snow forecast for northwest Kansas, Nebraska, northern Iowa and southern Minnesota.

Lesser amounts were expected elsewhere over the northern and central Rockies and from South Dakota into northern Michigan.

Another storm center, located over northern Texas, spread rain, drizzle and some thunderstorm activity over much of the rest of the nation's midsection.

Rain also fell in the Pacific Northwest with Seattle reporting a little light snow.

Temperatures continued on the mild side over much of the eastern half of the country following a balmy day Friday which saw a record high of 64 degrees in New York City.

The soggy Southeast had temperatures from the 40s and 50s in northern areas to the 60s and 70s southward.

Along the northern border, however, temperatures were in the 20s and 30s from the northern Great Lakes across the northern and central Plains and through the Rockies.

It was also quite cool in the Pacific Northwest with readings in the 30s. The 50s predominated in California and through the desert Southwest.

Some scattered shower activity is forecast for California during the day with thunderstorms expected for the southern Plains and the Ohio Valley.

Dutchess Woman Is Convicted on Welfare Thefts

A 32-year-old former Poughkeepsie City Department of Welfare caseworker, who was convicted Thursday of 19 counts involving thefts of money destined for relief recipients, was in the Dutchess County jail today awaiting sentencing on March 21.

Mrs. Etta Louise Meadows, formerly of Haviland Road, Town of Hyde Park, was acquitted by a trial jury of nine men and three women of 38 other counts of the indictment which accused her of stealing $880.70 of welfare funds.

County Judge John R. Schwartz denied a motion by defense attorney John Hill to set aside the guilty verdict as being contrary to the evidence submitted during the trial which lasted three weeks.

The judge gave Hill until March 14 to submit briefs and make additional motions. The jury found Mrs. Meadows guilty of counts involving checks totaling $363.80. The convictions were for the charges of second degree grand larceny, third degree forgery and misappropriation of funds as a public officer.

The trial jury acquitted the woman of counts involving checks totaling $525.90.

Mark Revalued

There were no official lists of the new exchange rates available. Some financial houses, like branches of the Deutsche Bank, declined temporarily to exchange any foreign currency, saying they were awaiting further instructions.

The Dresden Bank, one of those which continued to convert currencies, said it was simply lowering the rate by 5 per cent.

Most German industrial leaders had been against any revaluation because of its impact on their sales abroad.

To almost a half million U. S. servicemen, their families and civilians living in West Germany, the move meant a 5 per cent cut in the money available for spending in Germany.

Cheaper Vacations
But to almost a half million foreign workers, most of them Italians, it meant more money being sent home to support their families.

For the millions of German tourists going abroad each summer, the move meant cheaper vacations.

For German shoppers at home imported goods like British automobiles, French fabrics, Italian shoes will be 5 per cent cheaper.

Paltz School

$490,000 school bond issue by a 931 to 536 vote this week also may have other repercussions. Ashton indicated today. The board president said that "plans will be initiated immediately to institute double sessions in September. We have no illusions about the additional monetary cost of this course of action or of its educational disadvantages. We hope that your action was taken with full knowledge of these problems; certainly we did our best to inform you about them."

Ashton continued: "You have registered your decision. There will be no new school building in the New Paltz Central School District in the near future. Your Board of Education is here to serve you, and as in any republic, it is right and proper that the wishes of the majority of the eligible voter should determine the nature of that service. We disagree with the decision you have made; the majority of our teachers disagree with it. But it is a decision made and will be a decision complied with."

Seek Stolen Car
The sheriff's office early today notified City Police that a 1957 blue and white sedan owned by Ronald Kuhne, 22 Hone Street, was stolen from in front of 150 Main Street, Port Ewen.

Taxpayer Association Votes To Admit Associate Members

The Willow, Lake Hill, Shady Taxpayers Association has voted unanimously to open its membership to all residents in Woodstock township.

Taxpayers of Bearsville, Wittenberg, Woodstock village and Zena may attend all meetings as associated members, it was decided at the February meeting of the organization. Previously, membership was restricted to taxpayers of the hamlets listed in the name of the organization.

Associate members will not have voting privileges but can profit by the studies and factual information obtained by the taxpayers association and join efforts of the association to foster a strong taxpayers voice which is aimed at sensible spending and full knowledge of town financial expenditures. The group is also a vigilant force which acts to block any needless or extravagant spending by town officials.

When associate members reach ten or more then a branch chapter may be formed and full voting privileges for that area will be extended through the original group will remain as the mother group.

Vice President John Melia was chairman of the meeting at which the amendment to the by-laws was approved. The by-laws committee of Virginia Owens, Fred Freitag and John Melia was approved for the remainder of the business year. Margaret Melia and Virginia Owens accepted the post of special Education Committee, one of the prime duties of which will be to represent the association at school meetings.

Casey's Statement

Association president, Lawrence Casey of Lake Hill, issued the following statement in conjunction with the announcement of association memberships:

"In inviting all taxpayers of Woodstock Township to join in achieving the goal of common sense expenditures, I believe we can attack the problems we are currently being utilized. Additional classroom area must be provided to properly accommodate the expected increase in student enrollment.
